ONE MILLION OF LIVES SAVED.

It is one of the remarkable facts of this remarkable age, not merely that so many persons are the victims of dyspepsia or indigestion, but its willing victims. Now, we would not be understood to say that any one regards dyspepsia with favor, or feels disposed to rank it among the luxuries of life. Far from it. Those who have experienced its torments would scout such an idea. All dread it, and would gladly dispense with its unpleasant familiarities. Mark Tapley, who was jolly under all the trying circumstances in which he was placed, never had an attack of dyspepsia, or his jolity would have speedily forsaken him. Men and women sometimes suffer its tortures uncomplainingly, but we never heard of a person who enjoyed them!

Of all the multifarious diseases to which the human system is liable, there is perhaps no one so generally prevalent as dyspepsia. There are diseases more acute and painful, and which more frequently prove fatal; but none, the effects of which are so depressing to the mind and so positively distressing to the body. If there is a wretched being in the world it is

A CONFIRMED DYSPEPTIC.

But it is not our intention to discant on the horrors of Dyspepsia. To describe them truthfully is simply an impossibility, but it is not possible to point out a remedy. We have said that dyspepsia is perhaps the most universal of human diseases. This is emphatically the case in the United States. Whether this general prevalence is due to the character of the food, the method of its preparation, or the hasty manner in which it is usually swallowed, is not our province to explain. The great fact with which we are called to deal is this:

DYSPEPSIA PREVAILS almost universallly.

Nearly every other person you meet is a victim, an apparently willing one; for were this not the case, why so many sufferers, when a certain, speedy and safe remedy is within the easy reach of all who choose to avail themselves of it? But the majority will not. Blinded by prejudice, or deterred by some othe. unexplained influence, they refuse to accept the relief proffered them. They turn a deaf ear to the testimony of the thousands whose sufferings have been alleviated, and with strange infatuation, appear to cling with desperate determination to their ruthless tormentor. They are dyspeptic. What is the remedy? to which we reply. This great alleviator of human suffering is almost as widely known as the English language. It has allayed the agonies of thousands, and is to day carrying comfort and encouragement to thousands of others. The acknowledged panacea is none other than

Dr. HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS.

Would you know more of the merits of this wonderful medicine than be can learned from the experience of others? Try it yourself, and when it has failed to fulfil the assurance of its efficacy given by the proprietor, than abandon faith in it.

LET IT BE REMEMBERED,

first of all, that HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS is not a rum beverage.

They are not alcoholic in any sense of the term. They are composed wholly of the pure juice or vital principle of roots. This is not a mere assertion. The extracts from which they are compounded are prepared by one of the first of German chemists. Unlike any other Bitters in the market, they are wholly free from spirituous ingredients. The objections which hold with so much force against preparations of this class, namely—that a desire for intoxicating drinks is stimulated by their use, are not valid in the case of the German Bitters. So far from encouraging or inculcating a taste or desire for inebriating beverages, it may be confidentially asserted that there tendency is in a diranet ricially opposite direction. Their effects in all cases of biliary system. Hoofland's German Bitters stand without an equal, acting promptly on the stomach and liver; they restore its torpidity and cause healthful secretion of bile thereby supplying the stomach with the necessary elements of sound digestion in proper proportions They give tone to the stomach—stimulating the functions, and enabling it to perform its duties as nature designed it should do. They impart vigor and strength to the entire system, causing the patient to feel like another being in fact, giving him a new lease of life.

BENEFICIAL—ONLY.

THEY PURIFY THE BLOOD,

cleansing the vital fluid of all hurtful impurities and supplanting them with the elements of genuine healthfulness. In a word, there is scarcely a disease in the whole catalogue of human ills but what is directly or indirectly employed; but in that most generally prevalent distressing and dreaded disease, Dyspepsia,

THEY STAND UNRIVALLED.

Now, there are certain classes of persons to whom Hoofland's German Bitters are only applicable, but who find it impossible to take them without positive discomfort. For such has been specially prepared. It is intended for those cases where a mild alcoholic stimulant is required in connection with the well-known tonic properties of the pure German Bitters. This Tonic contains all the medicinal properties of the Bitters, but so flavored as to remove the extreme bitterness. This preparation is not only palatable, but combines the medicinal forms, the virtues of the German Bitters. The solid extracts of some of Nature's choicest restoratives are held in solution by a spirituous agent of the purest quality. In cases of languor or excessive debility, where the system appears to have become exhausted of its energies,

Dr. HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIC

HOOFLAND'S TONIC

acts with almost marvelous effect. It not only stimulates the digestive and assisting energies, but invigorates and permanently strengthens its action upon the Liver and Stomach. Hoofland, perhaps less prompt than the Bitters, when the same quantity is taken is none the less certain. Indigestion, Biliousness, Dyspepsia in all its Protean forms, and all nervous affections yield to its potent influence. It gives the invalid a new and stronger hold upon life, removes depression of spirits, and inspires cheerfulness. It supplants the pain of disease with the ease and comfort of perfect health. It gives strength to weaknesses, throws despondency to the winds, and starts the restored invalid upon a new and gladsome career But Dr. Hoofland's benefactions to the human race are not confined to his celebrated or his invaluable Tonic He has prepared another medicine, which is rapidly winning its way to popular favor because of its intrinsic merits. This is a perfect substitute for mercury, without any of mercury's evil qualities.

GERMAN BITTERS,

These wonderful Pills, which are intended to act upon the Liver, are mainly composed of Podophyllin, or the VITAL PRINCIPLE OF THE MANDRAKE ROOT.

Now we desire the reader to distinctly understand that this extract of the Mandrake is many times more powerful than the Mandrake itself. It is the principle, separated from the fibre, in a perfectly pure and highly concentrated form. Hence it is that two of the Podophyllin Pills contain a less quantity of bile anywhere will be found or a handful of other preparations of the Mandrake are required. The Podophyllin stimulating its functions and causing it to make its biliary secretions in regular and proper quantities. The injurious results which invariably follow the use of mercury is entirely avoided by their use. But it is not upon the Liver only that their powers are exerted. The extract of Mandrake contained in them is skillfully combined with other extracts, one of which acts upon the stomach, one upon the upper bowels, one upon the lower bowels, and one prevents any griping effect, thus producing a pill that influences the entire digestive and alimentary system, in an equal and harmonious manner, and its action entirely free from nausea, vomiting or griping pains common to all other purgatives.

ACTS DIRECTLY ON THE LIVER,

Possessing these much desirable qualities, the Podophyllin Pills became invaluable as a

FAMILEY MEDICINE.

No household should be without them. They are perfectly safe, require but two for an ordinary dose, are prompt and efficient in action, and when used in connection with Dr. Hoofland's German Bitters, or Tonic, may be regarded as certain specifics in all cases of Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, or any of the disorders to which the system is ordinarily subject. The act upon the stomach and bowels, carrying off improper obstructions, while the Bitters or Tonic give tone, strengthen and invigorate the frame, give tone and appetite to the stomach, and thus build up the invalid anew.

THE DEACON'S STORY.

The solemn old bells in the steeple
Are ringin'. I guess you know why?
No? Then I will tell you, though mostly
It's whispered about on the sly.
Some six weeks ago a church meetin'
Was called—for—nobody knew what;
But we went, and the parson was present,
And I don't know who, or who not.

Some twenty odd members, I calc'late,
Which mostly was women of course;
Though I don't mean to say much agin 'em,
I've seen many gatherin's worse.
There, in the front row, sat the deacons,
The eldest was Old Deacon Pryor;
A man counin' nine-score-and-seven,
And gin'rally full of his fro.

Beside him, his wife, counin' four-score,
A kind hearted, motherly soul,
And next to her, young Deacon Hartley,
A good Christian man on the whole,
Miss Parson, a spinster of fifty,
And long ago laid on the shelf,
Had wedged herself, and, beside her,
Was Deacon Morse—that's myself.

The meetin' was soon called to order;
The parson looked glum as a tick,
We gazed at each other in silence,
And silently wondered "what next?"
Then slowly upspoke Deacon Hartley,
His voice seemed to tremble with fear,
As he said: "Pray and man you have known me,
My good friends, for nigh forty year.

"And you scarcely expect a confession
Of error from me just—you know,
My dearly-beloved wife died last Christmas;
Its now nearly ten months ago.
The winter was long and lonely,
The farm work went on, and I needed
A woman about the old place.

"The children were wilder than rabbits,
And still grieved for their mother every day;
No help to be found in the village,
Although I offered 'so pay.
In fact, I was quite discouraged,
For everything looked so forlorn;
Then suddenly Patience McAlpine
Skipped into my kitchen, one morn.

"She had only just left an errand,
But she laughed at Parson's rebuke,
And set to work, just like a woman:
A quilting the place to right.
And though she was so busy,
And ill her hands could spare,
She'd flit in and out like a sparrow,
And sing, every day she was there.

"Can't sing right my nady, my Joe,
Seemed feverish, and fretful, and woke me,
By crying, at midnight, you know.
I was tired with my day's work and sleepy,
And couldn't no way, keep still;
So, at last I grew cross, and spanked him,
And he screamed out with a will.

"Just about then I heard a soft rapping,
Away stole the tell-tale to door;
And then little Patience McAlpine
Walked shyly across the white floor.
Says she: 'I thought Josey was cryin',
I guess I'd best take him away,
I knew you'd be gettin up early,
To go to the marshes for hay.'
So I laid here to-night to get breakfast,
I guess he'll be quiet with me—
Come, Josey, like papa, and tell him
That a nice little man you'll be!'
She was stooping low over the pillow,
And saw the big tears on his cheek;
Her face was as close to my whiskers,
I daren't move, scarcely, or speak;
Her hands were both holdin' the baby,
Her—er—head on my shoulder was hid;
But her mouth was so neat, and so rosy,
I—kissed her, That's just what I did."

Then down sat the tremblin' sinner,
The sisters they murmured for "shame,
And she smooth'd out her calico bib.
No doubt she was mostly to blame.
When straightway upoke Deacon Pryor,
"Now brethern and sisters," he said,
(We knowed that subtin' was comin',
And all sot as still as the dead),
"You've heard Brother Hartley's confession,
And I speak for myself, when I say,
That if my wife was dead, and my children
Were all growin' worse every day,
Ah if my house needed attention,
And Patience McAlpine had come
And tidied up the clutered-up kitchen,
And made the place seem like home;
And if I was worn out and sleepy,
And she would'n't let me be still,
But fretted and woke me at midnight,
As babies, we know, sometimes will;
And if Patience came in to hush him,
And twas all as our good Brother says—
I think, friends—I

For County Treasurer,
CHAS. B. HURST, of Rochester, Pa.

THE county Republican committee met in Beaver on last Saturday afternoon. Nearly all of its members were present. An interchange of opinion developed the fact that little, if any, disaffection exists in our ranks in this county. After arranging some details, the Committee adjourned, determined on going to work, and securing for the ticket a regular old-fashioned Republican majority.

DR. SHURLOCK, Republican candidate for the Legislature for this county, visited Zelienople, Harmony &c., in Butler county last week, and returned, satisfied that everything was right in that end of the District He had been led to believe, before his trip over there, that Dr. Lusk, the Democratic nominee, would poll a heavy Republican vote in that vicinity; but after a minute investigation he finds the whole story to be a canard. From the active Republicans in that locality he learned that there would be but little cutting at the October election, on any candidates, and that the Republican ticket for that county would receive an average majority of from four to five hundred votes.

THE formal announcement by the Treasury Department of the taking of all of the Five Per Cent. Loan has already been anticipated. But the fact that this important negotiation has been concluded satisfactorily and without diminishing the credit of the Government is of great moment. It proves that the public finances are administered with discretion and economy. The National credit stands higher to-day than ever before; and though we have still a large debt to carry, we have manifested an ability to fund it on easy terms which speaks well for the resources and wealth of the country.

ANOTHER terrible calamity has overtaken the unfortunate Island of St. Thomas. A hurricane and earthquake prostrated almost all the houses on the island and made nearly six thousand persons homeless. No more dreadful commotion of the elements can be imagined than the disturbance which has thus afflicted St. Thomas. The island has been so frequently devastated by earthquakes and storms that it may be considered well nigh uninhabitable. Cerhabitation, and not to be coveted even as a naval station.

A CORRESPONDENT of the Cincinnati Commercial thus epitomizes President Grant's administration: I think him a good man, and his administration has certainly accomplished a good deal. It has been economical, honest and faithful. Thieves have been put out of office, and better men put in their places, at any rate the latter have not robbed the people as their predecessors under Johnson. Boutwell's financial policy, though open to objection, has been pretty successful. The Indian policy recommends itself to every body, as does the Washington treaty, and the appointment of the Civil Service Commission.

ARCHITECT Clark of the United States Capitol building has under consideration the proposition to extend the west front of the center of the Capitol, facing Washington, and make it the main architectural front, instead of its being at the back of the building, as it now is. He thinks the plan feasible, and one likely to meet with favor from Congress. The improvements now making in the Hall of the House of Representatives are very extensive. The new floor now being put down will allow 30 additional seats. The sections are done away with entirely, and the members desks, therefore, will be more compactly arranged than heretofore.

THE following admirable burlesque of the doctrines of the Ohio Democracy originated among the colored men of York county, Va.: "Resolved, That the following subjects deserve the serious consideration of the people: 1. The present system of tolls for grist should be one-tenth instead of one-eight. Such an enormous tariff works to the detriment of the masses of the people—the poor—from the boy with a half peck of corn on his head, trudging to mill, to the moderate farmer who cultivates his six, ten, or fifty acres. 2. A uniform system of education, as provided for by the Constitution, instead of the contingent system of education, as now conducted in violation of the Constitution. 3. A more strict maintenance of the Constitution, particularly of the homestead provision, or the entire repudiation of the public debt of the State will be just and eminently proper. 4. A reduction of taxes, and a more moderate expenditure of the State's moneys at this juncture of the people's poverty."

THE following from The Alta California relates to the probable result of the election on to day (Wednesday): "There was a majority of 9,000 against the Republicans in the last Gubernatorial fight. There are, of course, many sound reasons for believing that majority will be reversed. The calculation is that Mr. Haight will be beaten in this city by from 3,000 to 4,000. All accounts go to prove that there will be as great a majority against him in the interior, but the votes are not counted yet. It will be wise, therefore for every Republican to go into the fight with the belief that his vote is actually necessary to win a victory. Indeed, the calculations which are given above mainly based upon the belief that superhuman exertions will be made by the opponents of the Democracy to rescue the State from the bad hands into which it has fallen."

OF the Richmond project to unite the South in a grand political movement for $3,000,000,000 in payment for liberated slaves, The Chicago Times thinks as follows: "The Richmond (Va.) Whig suggests that political parties divide on the question of paying $3,000,000,000 for liberated slaves, half of the money to go to the freedmen themselves, in order to secure their votes. The Whig, being a sensible journal, of course knows that on such an issue no political party could be organized in any Northern State. It knows, too, that the Fourteenth Amendment forbids the several States and the United States to pay "for the loss or emancipation of any slave." Hence it knows that the question of compensation is not a practical one, and its suggestion must have been made either for the purpose of calling into being a Southern sectional party, having local spoils for its aim, and a fool's dream for its platform."

THERE is a great sensation in the city of New York, over the discovery of the corpse of a female, about 18 years old, packed in a trunk left at a railroad Depot, and ticketed for Chicago, on last Saturday a week ago. It appears, a lady hired a drayman to take the trunk to the depot from a certain house mentioned. She preceded him, and on his arrival, hired a boy to assist in conveying the trunk into the depot, when the lid showed signs of giving away. A strap was purchased and bound around the trunk. She purchased a ticket for Chicago and had the baggage checked. But, some hours would pass before the train left, and the woman went out into the city. During the afternoon, the rough handling of the trunk caused the lid to open so far as to emit a loathsome stench; when it was determined by the baggage master, to open it and ascertain the cause. They found a beautiful female doubled up and packed therein. The authorities were notified and the corpse removed to the morgue for identification. But, before many hours passed it was so disfigured by decomposition as to render identification impossible. Physicians declare she came to her death from forced abortion. The drayman who took the trunk to the depot, and the boy who helped him carry it in, have been examined. The result was the arrest of an abortionist named Rosenzweig, at whose house the trunk was obtained by the drayman—Rosenzweig having assisted him in loading it upon the dray. It was with the utmost difficulty the officer could protect the prisoner from the fury of the mob; who at once suspected him of having been arrested for murder, his character as an abortionist had become so notorious. Among the many who visited the dead house for the purpose of identifying the body, was Josephene Norton and Mrs. Kelly, of Boston, Mass. Both gaudily dressed; the latter keeper of an assignation house in that city, and the former an inmate. They said they thought they saw a resemblance, in the distorted features of the deceased, to those of the girl they tifully white complexion and blonde hair. She came to Mrs. Kelly's about two month's ago, giving her name as Ruth Billings; and was three months advanced in pregnancy. She had been seduced by a medical student, who had gone to California. She had declared she would get rid of her trouble, and left for that purpose. The inmates of Dr. Rosenzweig's house have been examined but all deny that such a trunk as the one in which the body was found was ever in the house. Of course the doctor denies it, as well as ever having seen the drayman. The girl who took it into the depot has not been found. It is now stated that there are three young woman, lately missing in New York, who answer to the description of the corpse found as above stated. Over sixty prisoners had examined the remains, all of whom claimed they thought them those of a relative or acquaintance who was missing under suspicious circumstances. It was at length pretty clearly proven that they were those of a Miss Bolsby, of Patterson, N. J. A Dentist identified his work in her teeth, and also other marks upon the body. This testimony was confirmed by the discovery of a handkerchief in a wash-tub at Rosenzweig's dwelling. But, what a commentary does the case present on the immense practice of abortionists when so many persons are found on the hunt of relatives or friends whom they suspect to have applied for their services?

ON September 19th a new constitution is to be submitted to the people of Nebraska for acceptance or rejection. Five articles are to be voted on separately, to wit: An Amendment authorizing the Legislature to pass laws compelling every child, between eight and sixteen years of age, unless educated at private schools, to attend public school for a certain number of weeks every year. Also, an amendment, prohibiting municipal corporations from lending their credit to railroads or private corporations. An article making the stockholders, in banking corporations individually responsible for all debts contracted by the institution while they are stockholders, but limiting the responsibility to three times the par value of the stock held by them. And an article requiring the Legislature to pass laws providing that towns and counties shall decide by vote whether they will prohibit the sale of liquor, and if the traffic be allowed, how it shall be regulated. The constitution also contains an article providing for minority representation.

THE residents of Paterson N. J., were thrown into a state of great excitement on Thursday morning by a rumor that a friend of Miss Alice Bowlesby, Walter Conkling, living in that city, had committed suicide. It was soon ascertained that the rumor was well founded. The young man deliberately shot himself with a revolver in the throat and neck, and died in less than fifteen minutes. He was a son of Alderman Conkling, of Paterson, and was employed at Sale's silk factory. Various stories are in circulation as to the circumstances which led to the act, But the belief is that it was prompted by his connection with the Bowlesby affair.

At the police headquarters in New York that afternoon, before the news of the suicide had been received, it was known that orders had been given to detectives to seek for and arrest young Conkling.

A DISPATCH from San Domingo, dated August 28, says the Revolutionists under Cabral have formed a provisional government, having its seat at Las Matas. A new and well organized attack is to be made against the troops of Baez. Baez, on his side, is not idle. He continues making great military preparations in Azua, and the United States war steamer Nantucket is said to have left Samana and to be at present cruising near Azna to co-operate by sea.

HERE AND THERE.

—A rather plain-spoken Southern orator recently began a stump speech thus: "I intend to speak plain English to you. I would like you to listen to me calmly. I do not come here to stun you with any oratorical eloquence. I want to enlighten you, and it will not take much of an orator to do that."

—New Orleans is threatened with another flood. The levee has caved in between Carrollton and Camp Parapet, seven miles above the city, and if not repaired immediately, before the river rises again, the whole of the city will be from four to eight feet under water. The levee at the point where it has broken is fifteen feet high, and it will not take much of a rise to send water through it. It is singular, that instead of going to work to repair it, the city and State are quarreling about whose place it is to do it.

—Dispatches contain an account of the progress of the Polaris on her North Pole voyage. She has arrived at Disco, Greenland, having had, so far, a most favorable trip. All on board were well, and the prospects are that the expedition has fortunately hit upon an unusually favorable year for the prosecution of its enterprise. We trust that in another year we shall hear that the North Pole has been found—if there be any—and that the stars and stripes have claimed it as their own.

—They tell a droll story of a Colorado bar-keeper whose customers complained that his liquor was weak and impotent. This stimulated his ingenuity, and he devised a compound mixture of pure spirits, poison oak and butternut which agreeably astonished those who partook thereof; the first imbiber who tried it fairly yelled with delight; the next took two drinks and turned a double somersault in front of the shebang, and finally a peddler, under the influence of this extraordinary draught, actually stole his own pack, and hid it in the woods. The bar-room has greatly risen in reputation in those parts, and its keeper is looked upon as a public benefactor.

—The Boston Advertiser has rather a cool way of criticising the acting of Miss Dolly Bidwell, who is playing in that city, and who is announced as "the handsomest woman on the American stage." "She owes," says this cynical observer, "a large portion of such success as she attains to the fact that her gown is somewhat though not immodestly low in the skirts as to display to great advantage a beautiful pair of striped stockings." Miss Bidwell might retort that this gentlemanly critic went to the theater to see and not to hear, and saw what he went to see. Really, if an actress is pretty, we should remember that she can't help it.

—Sir Duncan Gibb told the British Association at its late meeting of an enormous woman. Caroline Heenan, now exhibiting in London, age 22 years, weighing 560 lbs., 7 feet around the body, 26 inches round the arm, and 3 feet 6 inches across the shoulders. Still, it appears that this large lady is not so much fat as muscular, and, unlike most fat people, she is able to sustain great physical exercise. She is also "handsome and pleasing," and "highly intelligent," not in the least "drowsy," nor is her face "fat and greasy." Miss Heenan is expected to grow greater as she grows older; but she is big enough for our money now, so that we conjure Mr. Barnum to engage her at once.

—It is not often that the mean and unscrupulous persons, who attempt to beat the will of a deceased man of wealth because their mercenary desires fail to be satisfied, are caught in a trap of their own setting. Recently, however, in Provincetown, Mass., two such fellows seem to have come to that sort of well-deserved grief. One John Nickerson died there and left a large estate in sums of $10,000, to his relatives. Two of them, dissatisfied with their proportion, set diligently to work, and, by dint of spending a good deal of time and money, succeeded in getting on a perpetual injunction against the distribution to be made by the executors. They then learned, to their amazement and wrath, that the estate had been divided according to the will among all the legatees, except themselves. Thus are they hoisted by their own petard.

—In Massachusetts, the State Board of Health, while exhibiting some activity in prosecuting nuisances, is also giving the people good advice through the medium of the municipal governments. The Board urges that special attention be given to collections of rotting materials in streets, yards, cellars, slaughter-houses, and elsewhere, and to streams and ponds whose waters are used for drinking. It recommends householders rigidly to cleanse their own premises, and especially their drains; and to insist upon personal cleanliness and temperance in eating and drinking in their own families. "With these precautions," says the Committee, "we shall be prepared for Asiatic cholera if it comes." If this kind of purgation shall be neglected, praying we suspect, will do but little good.

—The old superstition of love powders seems to be one that will never die out. Among the Southern negroes it is exceedingly popular, and there comes the story now of a Long Island maiden who has been drugging the coffee of an unappreciative swain, with the usual result of making him sick, and nothing more. It is curious to note how minds influenced by a strong passion or desire may readily be controlled by superstitions that it would appear the veriest child could see through, but in which these excited people place the greatest confidence. It is upon this class that the vile hags known as fortune-tellers and clairvoyants subsist, and, working alike upon their credulity and their passion, extort from them money and destroy their peace of mind. Certainly these charlatans have humbugged the ignorant quite long enough, and, for the general good of society, it would be well were the police, in their next raiding mood, to sweep away these spots upon the fair face of civilization.

NIAGARA.

Fresh Sketches of Oft Described Scenes.

We condense the following from a correspondence to the New York Evening Mail:

GOAT ISLAND.

The first visit that one makes from the Cataract House is to Goat Island. Passing around the side of the hotel you follow a narrow plank walk along the edge of the rapids immediately under the large piazza, then through a short covered bridge which spans a race divided from the fierce rapids by only a narrow stone wall, and through which the waters flow quietly on as if peacefully happy at having apparently escaped the terrible fall—a fancied security, however, for but a few feet further on they turn abruptly on the very edge of the precipice and rush over, roaring with fear and disappointment, dropping innumerable dewy tears of sorrow, and sending back clouds of spray that rise up like the released spirits of the lost, lost waters. After passing by the inevitable Indian store, and escaping the irrepressible white conqueror of Mr. Lo, who stands at the door and with his blandest smile urges that you just step in and look at his goods, we reach the iron bridge that spans the rapids.

THE ROMANCE OF NIAGARA.

A few evenings since, starting for a moonlight walk, I crossed over to Goat Island and chose this narrow path. No sounds were to be heard save the roaring of the cataract and my smothered footsteps on the damp ground, and struggling beams of the full moon throwing ghost-like beams and shadows on the tall trees and tangled underwood. Emerging from the dense forest and crossing the narrow bridge to Luna Island a scene of beauty was before us that no words can describe. At my feet so close that I could have stepped in the very crest of the falls the waters curved over the edge of the precipice, looking in the moonlight like molten, silver, while the spray rising up in my face assumed strange and weird-like shapes, changing from fairy to hob-goblin with each zephyr of the evening breeze. Hanging in the midst of the base of the falls was to be seen the lovely lunar, bow, perfect in form and coloring. This is the only point from which this bow can be seen, and that only two or three nights in the month, when the moon is at the full, and rises in mid heaven directly over the American Fall. The steep Canada bank of the river opposite was dark and undefined in the shadows, and the dull green waters of the river far below seemed too unearthly to be other than those of the dread river Styx. To the left rose the tall trees of Goat Island, their branches everspreading the terrible chasm, while beyond the waters of the great horse-shoe fall seemed to crumble away like the front of a great chalk cliff and roll down the rock like dense white smoke—Terrapin tower standing like a grim sentinel keeping solitary guard over this strangely beautiful scene.

One had no thoughts of hours or moments in the fascination of this lovely picture. The mind rebelled from the thought of turning one's face toward the busy lighted streets of the village and the large hotels teeming with humanity, and leaving this rare loneliness.

"TWO HEARTS THAT BEAT AS ONE."

But I could not help being interwild scenes of nature. But a short distance from me, on a shawl that they had spread on the floor of the balcony, sat a young girl and her lover; she might have been twenty-two, possibly but eighteen. Her face told but little of her age. They may have been married, but they certainly were lovers. All the afternoon these two sat hand in hand, looking on the might and majesty of Niagara and listening to its deafening roar of endless melody. Her face was strangely attractive, not beautiful—not even what would be called pretty. I can remember little else of it save her wondrous, expressive blue eyes, and the classical forehead that was absolutely perfect in form, and from which the brown hair was carelessly rolled back showing its beauty in its entirety. As she held her round hat in her lap and with her delicate, sensitive face slightly inclined forward, and the summer breeze toying with her nut brown hair, I could read in her expressive face all the emotions of awe, wonder and delight which the sublime spectacle wrought in her mind. When I left the tower, after nurse Gloaming had come and put the sun to bed behind the Canada hills, leaving the falling red in the sun's decline and gray as the evening slowly fell upon them, these two still sat there side by side knowing only each other and the strange beauty about them, and I could not but look back and wish that this "little one" might pass over any trouble or sorrow that the future may have in store for her, (as it has for us all) as unharmed as do the waters over Niagara's great precipice.

—Persons fond of speculating concerning the mysteries of nature have a wide field before them in the coincidence about this time of so many earthquakes, tempests, railroad and steamboat casualities, and shocking crimes. The material and the moral world seem both to be the prey of extraordinary evil forces, which manifest their activity in furious outbreaks. How far these forces are in or above nature, or how far they proceed from an invisible spiritual world above or within nature, is a question concerning which a great deal may be said.

A LAKE GEORGE letter writer moralizes in this fashion on a topic ever dear to the feminine heart:

BOUNDING GIRLS.

The Fort William Henry, where my heart—by which I mean my trunk—for the time reposes, shelters just now a large number of pretty, buoyant and bounding girls, whose voices ripple over the piazza, thro' the halls and up and down the stairs with a peculiar tone, which must be perilous to sentimental youths and widowers in their first year of mourning.

DREAMS OF WEDLOCK.

There is something both pleasant and melancholy in observing this troop of feminine joyousness, ranging from sixteen and seventeen to what may be two and twenty. All of them seem to have been well educated and tolerably well reared, having, no doubt, parents in easy circumstances and the advantages of cultivated society. Strong-mindedness, as it is termed, evidently is not among their faults. Not one of them, I venture to say, but has fixed her faith and future upon marriage—that state so delightful to the fancy, and usually so dull and dreary in fact.

I presume they all have their loving lords cleary outlined in their own mind. He who is to rule their destiny must be distinguished in appearance, elegant in his manner, brilliant in speech, and particularly must be blest with shekels in abundance, and these he must be willing to scatter lavishly in the cause connubial. He must be all that a woman would desire, and a bank account capable of exciting her admiration and her anxiety to draw upon.

What pleasant pictures the maiden's mind paints of matrimony against the rosy clouds of to-morrow. And when matrimony and the morrow come, how different they prove from what they have been imagined! The husband shows himself to be cut out of materialism and prose, instead of sentiment and poetry. He is not rich, or, if he be, he is not generous. Domestic discords, narrow economies, tormenting children and household bondage are not the rude facts exchanged for all the wealth and splender of expectation. The hope and ambition of the wife are surrendered, and she lives through the little creatures who drove her half distracted and cluster forever about her knees. They grow up in turn to dream and hope, to awake and be disappointed; and so from generation to generation the tragi-comedy of existence goes on.

ILLUSIONS ARE SWEET.

Of the many blonds and brunette idlers and triflers registered on the books of Fort William Henry, how few, if any, will half realize what they anticipate from wedlock. But let them cherish their illusions, since sorrow never comes too late and joy too swiftly flies. Let them laugh and flirt, be silly and sensimental, while they may. Let them look for an Admirable Crichton in Mr. Jonathan Jones, and for Chevalier Bayard in Jacob Jenkins, esq., until truth, which soon or late, comes to all, deceives them, oh! so cruelly.

A Miner's Experience.

An old miner who has experienced explosions and describes them: As soon as the explosion occurs it drives like a whirlwind and with force enough to carry any weight before it in the direction of the nearest vent. In going it sweeps along the ceiling, tearing away props, brattices and everything else, even the pillars of coal. The unfortunate miner who may be within its influence, instinctively throws himself flat upon the ground. Before he can rise the gas has encountered the body of air moving in an opposite direction. They come together with an elastic shock, sufficient to change the direction of the gaseous tornado, and back it comes with a rush, lifting the miner and flinging him probably a distance of fifty feet against the ragged sides of the vein, there is again the gas whirls back with undiminished fury, lifting the miner once more and dashing him back from whence he originally came. Again and again this terrible game of battledore is repeated. Nothing can resist its impetuosity. Meanwhile the terrible, afterdamp accumulates with surprising rapidity. This is composed of the black damp which hangs from the roof and the white damp which gathers along the floor. It joins the gas at every rush, and adds power and volume to its fury. The helpless miner struggles with superhuman strength to resist the buffettings of the mine-fiend; but now the damp begins to seize upon his senses. The sensation is not unpleasant. He feels a slight dizziness; becomes weak and sleepy; he staggers; his knees lose all their power and he falls.

—A telegram on Saturday last from New-York says there have been no new developements touching the Rosenzweig abortion case. Miss Bowlesby has been removed from the Morgue to Hart's Island, where she was interred. There were no friends, not even a sister, present, to shed a tear over the grave of the unfortunate girl. Her relatives, however, have announced it as their intention to remove her remains to Paterson when the approach of cold weather will enable them to do so. At the Coroner's inquest the evidence was clear and conclusive upon the important points of the doctor's identity with Ascher, the admission of the girl to his den, and the removal of the trunk from here with the body. The mysterious woman who had charge of the trunk has not yet been discovered, but her presence and testimony are no longer absolutely necessary to the conviction of the doctor. The police, however, are still on the alert to find additional evidence.

—The steamer Java, of the Cunard line, which arrived at New York on Wednesday, ran down the Norwegian bark Annita, while in mid-ocean, on the night of August 25th. The Java was under full steam when she struck the Annita amidships, sinking her so suddenly that only one out of the crew of twelve escaped. Although the sea was very high and the night extremely dark, boats were at once lowered from the Java and a long search made for the crew of the ill-fated vessel, but only one man could be found. The Annita was bound from Portsmouth to Quebec. No injury was suffered by the Java except the loss of the foretopgallant-mast and some of her iron railing. On the second day after the disaster the passengers of the Java passed resolutions commending the bravery and prompt action of the officers and men in searching for the lost crew of the Annita, and expressing sympathy for the afflicted families and friends. Over $1,000 was subscribed by the passengers in aid of these families. The officers of the Java say the Annita had no sidelights visible until just before the collision.

Medicinal.

A GREAT MEDICAL DISCOVERY

Dr. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA

VINEGAR BITTERS

Hundreds of Thousands

Bear testimony to their Wonderful Curative Effects.

WHAT ARE THEY?

THEY ARE NOT A VILE

FANCY DRINK,

made of Poor Rum, Whiskey, Proof Spirits and Refuse Liquors doctored, spiced and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics," "Appetizers," "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true Medicine, made from the Native Roots and Herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER and A LIFE GIVING PRINCIPLE, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system, carrying off all poisonous matter and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters according to direction and remain long unwell.

$100 will be given for an incurable case, provided the bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism and Gout, Dyspepsia, or Indigestion, Biliousness, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys, and Bladder, these Bitters have been most successful. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood, which is generally produced by derangement of the Digestive Organs.

DYSPEPSIA OR INDIGESTION, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the regions of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia.

They invigorate the Stomach and stimulate the torpid liver and bowels, which render them of unequalled efficacy in cleansing the blood of all impurities, and imparting new life and vigor to the whole system.

FOR SKIN DISEASES, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-Worms, Scald-Head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin, of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters. One bottle in such cases will convince the most incredulous of their curative effect.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure and the health of the system will follow.

PIN, TAPE and other WORMS, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. For full directions, read carefully the circular around each bottle, printed in four languages—English, German, French and Spanish.

Seventeenth Annual Session Sept. 12.

Beautiful Grounds suited for out door exercise and recreation

Cheerful Room, well furnished and ventilated, warmed with grates.

Principal's Family includes all teachers and pupils from abroad, rendering the Seminary a real home for all.

Vocal and instrumental Music has been made a specialty for years. This was the first institution in the West to open a special Musical Department. Two Organs and ten Pianos, one full-sized Chickering Grand, give ample opportunity for practice.

COURSES OF STUDY.—English and Classical more extensive than in most Female Colleges. Painting and Drawing taught by a skillful artist.

Two Buildings, on opposite sides of the street, in fine repair, afford opportunities for both sexes and for brothers and sisters to sit at the same table and in the same recitation room, the only intercourse allowed, the departments being entirely distinct. For twelve years the present Principal has been in charge of the school, and it is safe to say that wherever it is known it is favorably known and that it has the fullest confidence of thoughtful men. A Thrilling Temperance Lecture. The regular weekly meeting of the Young Men's Christian Temperance Union of Pittsburgh, was held on Monday evening of last week. At the conclusion of the regular order of business, a stranger arose in the audience, came forward, and introduced himself as follows:

"You see before you only a wreck of manhood. I am young in years but I appear old. I am a graduate of Dickinson College. While a student in college my associate students, we commenced to drink. My down-ward course was short. I left home, soon after taking with me a large sum. For a while I practiced law but failed through drink. A short time ago I received $500 from home and started for the west. I fell again and here I am without a cent in this city, but I am ashamed to see my friends here. Thank God, last night I signed the pledge in this hall, and I shall try to do better in the future. Friends take warning by me. The first glass is the fatal one.

Frankfort Springs Academy is fortunate in having secured as Principal Prof. D. W. Hanna, a graduate of Jefferson College. He comes well recommended as an educator. Fire.—On Monday evening, of last week, the store and dwelling house of Mr. John Riggs, at Independence, Ohio tp., four miles from Beaver township, this county was destroyed by fire, together with their contents. It is supposed to have caught from the falling of a box of matches from the top shelf of the store. The loss is very considerable, having been but partially covered by insurance.

A REALLY GOOD INVENTION.—It is very seldom we commend to the public in this way patent improvements and improvements, which belong more properly to our advertising columns; but we have to commend, however, so deeply concerns the health, happiness and comfort of our American women, that we make no apology for giving it our most emphatic endorsement and approval. The invention referred to is the great American Washer, which is claimed to be in every conceivable respect superior to any other "washer" extant. It is the smallest, most compact, most portable, most easily operated, and is not at all liable to get out of order. Its construction is so simple, that even a child can be successfully taught to operate in an incredible short space of time. Some of the most prominent and desirable features in this "washer," which is an inducement in itself, are worthy of especial commendation. They are these: It is always ready for use; there is no adjusting; no screws to confuse and annoy, and no delay whatever in adapting it. Everything seems to have been done that ingenuity could suggest; and in our estimation it is simply a practical, sensible and beautiful invention. It only requires to be seen to be appreciated, which cannot fail to please the taste of the most fastidious.—Philad. Weekly Press.

Population of Beaver County—Past and Present.—The following figures, taken from advance sheets of the report of Mr. Walker, Superintendent of the Census, shows the population of this county, for a good many years back: In 1800 its population was 5,776; in 1810, 12,168; in 1820, 24,183; in 1830, 29,140; in 1870, 36,148. It will be seen from this that while our population has not grown remarkably rapid, the county has been steadily filling up, and keeping pace with the other counties around us.

MRS. BENCE has just received all styles of Fall Hats, Bonnets, Ribbons, Trimming, Flowers, Plumes, &c., and chickens, taken in exchange for goods. Give her a call at 3d street Beaver. sep6;4w.

Man Killed by a Train of Cars.—A fatal accident occurred Tuesday night of last week, at Glendale station, on the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railway, a freight train running over a man at that point, killing him instantly. It appears that the train had nearly reached Pittsburgh, when it was discovered that the caboose at the rear had become detadhed. The train had gone some distance before the absence of the caboose was discovered. Then it was stopped, and commenced backing to find the missing car. The rear lights were on the caboose, and, as we are informed, no lights were placed out on the end of the train when the backing commenced. After backing a part of the distance, the train struck and knocked down a man who was walking on the track. The cars passed over the unfortunate man, mangling him dreadfully, and killing him instantly. It would seem that he was walking toward the city, and it is thought that, after the freight train passed him he stepped upon the track in the rear of it, and walked, never dreaming of danger impending from the train he was following. The absence of the lights on the end car, prevented him from seeing the train backing towards him. The body of the man was identified as that of John Neverman, a young German, twenty-four years of age, who lived at Glendale station. The remains were brought to the undertaking establishment of Fairman & Sampson. Mr. Neverman had lately rented a house at Glendale station and had moved some of his furniture into it preparatory to his marriage, which was to take place next week. He had also but a few days before written a letter to a sister in Germany to come and live with him, and it is probable that she is now on her way to this country

Spring Elections to be Restored.—The following act, passed at the recent session of the Legislature, restoring the spring elections in 1872, was approved by Governor Geary on the 28th of June:

The State Fair.—The State Fair for Pennsylvania will be held this year at Scranton. The exhibition will begin on Tuesday, the 19th of September. Ample arrangements have been made to make this one of the best agricultural and mechanical exhibitions ever given in this State. Persons here who have a little leisure, and who have never visited the anthracite regions of Pennsylvania, should by all means attend this fair.

Ho! For Oregon.—Rev. John Spencer, formerly of this State, but for the past eighteen years a resident of Oregon, told the people of Beaver, on last Thursday evening, what he knew of the area climate, and productions of his adopted State. The lecture was an instructive one, and amply repaid all it cost to hear it.

The exhibition of the Pennsylvania State Agricultural Society, for 1871, will be held at Scranton on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, September 19th, 20th and 21st. The grounds are spacious, the buildings and accommodations ample, and the premium list liberal. There is no charge for entries, except horses entered for speed.

Mr. Simon Snitger of Beaver, and Samuel Moorhead esq., of Bridgewater, both of whom were thrown from their horses a week or so ago, are rapidly recovering from the effects of their accidents.

FALL styles of hats and hat frames, just received at Mrs. Fast's.

G. W. H. Yost, formerly of the Corry Machine Company, was on Monday, week before last, indicted by the Court of Quarter Sessions of Venango county for obtaining money on false pretences, in the Summer of 1869, of Messrs. F. W. Andrews, and Lyman Steward of Titusville. Eleven days later the statue of limitations would have barred the prosecution. Mr. Yost was held to bail in the sum of $6,000.

OSTRICH and vulture tips, wings, and fall flowers, for sale at Mrs. Fast's.

Mrs. Nelson, wife of Wm. Nelson, of Pymatuning tp., Mercer Co., fell from a wagon, and dislocated her neck, on Wednesday of week before last. The wagon was standing by a hay-stack which was about being finished by her husband and son, and had on a small quantity of hay at the time. Her fall was unnoticed until her groans attracted the attention of her son. She died in a few minutes after she fell.

MRS. FAST has just received a lot of plain and plaid sash ribbon, new styles of lace and linen collars, ladies scarfs, and fancy neck-ties very cheap.

New Post Office at Shippingport.—A new post office was ordered to be established at Shippingport, this county, recently, and William Elliott, esq., has received the appointment of Postmaster.

DOLLS, dolls, dolls of all kinds from five cents to five dollars; initial note paper and envelopes, and the celebrated oriede fountain pen, at Mrs. Fast's.

A fire broke out at Oil City, on Saturday evening of week before last, in the fire engine house of No. 2, on the west side of the creek. Mrs. Wright, who occupied the upper floor, was using benzine to cleanse various articles, when the fire in the cooking stove set the benzine ablaze, and the engine house was burned to the ground. J. M. Sharp's coal office was badly damaged, and the building next above partially burned. Mrs. Wright, in attempting to save some of her goods, was dreadfully burned. It is barely possible she may recover. A child was also slightly burned whose mother was visiting at the time.

RIBBON combination comb—a new thing in fancy combs. Call and see, at Mrs. Fast's.

Information wanted immediately of the parents or friends of a boy calling himself Willie Lewis. He is about nine years of age, has brown hair; a large head, dark eyes, and uncommonly long eye-lashes. He says he was taken from Cleveland to Pennsylvania, by a woman named Mrs. Black, and left on the road. He says he has a grandmother named Doubleday, but don't know where she lives. Any information to parents or friends of the child should be directed to J. D. Gage, Rousesville, Venango Co., Pa.

In Rochester on the hill near New York street there is a hole almost large enough to bury a horse or make a hundred barrel cistern, in the street, extending from one side nearly to the middle, unprotected. Some one has been digging out sand, and with great carelessness did not leave a single barricade for the protection of pedestrians, and vehicles passing after dark. In larger towns such reckless want of regard for life and limb is punished by heavy fine and imprisonment. We are not familiar with the borough laws of Rochester on the subject.

Girard – Lake Erie–Hoods – Firms – Showmen – Monument – Dan Rice and Grounds.—M. E. Church—Cosmopolitan, &c., &c.

GIRARD, PA., August 28, 1871.

The country about this town is perhaps unsurpassed for farming purposes. It is fertile, well watered and produces the best quality of wheat and potatoes—the latter being dry and superior to those raised in any other soil. Notwithstanding the country is so level, it abounds in springs, and is free from ague and malarious influences which so often prevail in level countries.

The roads are level and kept in fine order, so that there is some satisfaction in riding or driving. You need not be continually on your guard to shun stones or mudholes in the road, nor sympathize with your horse who must drag you up one hill only to let you down another.

This is the home of showmen, being emphatically, the centre from which radiate nearly all the shows, circuses, and menageries, of the country. Whayer, the famous and Dan Rice—who has been the most successful of them—all reside in this beautiful town.

Dan Rice's residence and grounds, the latter particularly, are extensively known and visited by all who make any stay in the town. They embrace about five acres, tastefully laid out in walks and adorned with rare shrubs and flowers, many of them from tropical regions. Statuary representing many mythological characters as well as animals is distributed through the grounds. He recently erected a fine carriage house contiguous to his mansion, which cost thirty thousand dollars. I think he would have made a better use of his money if he had given twenty thousand, at least, to the Seminary. He intended to build his house and modernize it in the finest style and manner, but it is reported that the show business has not been very profitable, at which many thoughtful men will conclude that the people are growing wiser. Dan was a war Democrat and showed his patriotism and public spirit by erecting at his own expense, at the close of the war, a monument to the memory of the soldiers from this county, who fell in their country's defense. It stands in the public square in the centre of the town, surrounded by a handsome iron railing. It was put up by a Chicago firm at a cost of five thousand dollars.

The corners of the die of the pedestal represent four cannon, while the cornice consists of rows of small cannon balls. One face of the pedestal bears the inscription. "Erected by Dan Rice. Inaugurated Nov. 1865," while the opposite side reads. "In memory of the Officers and Soldiers of Erie county Penn'a, who died in defence of their country." On the moulding of the base of the shaft are sculptured on one side two bayonets crossed, on a second two swords, on a third two small field pieces, on the forth an anchor.

The shaft over which hangs in folds, the American flag bears the image of the Eagle as the national emblem of liberty.

The M. E. Church completed through the untiring energy of Rev. A. D. Morton, and old friend and patron of the Seminary and Institute in our town, is a model church in many respects. It is completely carpeted and upholstered seats, and back being cushioned which adds very materially to the comfort of the congregation, especially if the sermon be dull. And why should we not render our churches both attractive and comfortable? Can we spend money to better advantage than by making them pleasant homes for the people? The day is past when we should so construct our churches as to render them repulsive or compel the worshippers at the same time to do penance. We are too much inclined to follow out the Catholic idea, that we must do penance in connection with our worship.

The Cosmopolitan is a large and popular paper, published at this point, is ably conducted by Charles Stou esq. It is thought to be unsurpassed as a country newspaper, is "independent" it says, though not neutral." It is strongly in favor of liberal wages to school teachers, outspoken on the subject of temperance, which may excuse it for its puns at the expense of General Grant who nevertheless seems destined to be the Peoples Candidate for President in 1872.

We leave this point in a day or two for Meadville the seat of the Erie Annual Conference. RAMBLER.

A Probable Schism in the M. E. Church.—A question has latterly sprung up among members of the M. E. Church, which bids fair to create some trouble in that organization.

The doctrine of sanctification has always been a peculiarity of this church. It is believed to be a distinct work, usually effected after conversion. It is not different in its nature, but rather the same work carried on to perfection. To be wholly sanctified, so it is alleged, is to love God supremely and intelligently, and to love our neighbor as ourselves, and includes rigid obedience to the divine commands. It is a state of conscious union with God and freedom from the power of sin, but not from the temptations of the evil one. Now the advocates of the "second blessing" give so much prominence to this peculiar doctrine as to make regeneration of little or no consequence—that unless a man is sanctified his conversion avails nothing. The leaders of this "new departure" go from place to place holding special meetings for the promotion of holiness, thereby intimating that other religious assemblages have some other object in view, and in a sense unchurching all of their own and other denominations that do not think and teach as they do.

This has already caused considerable controversy and it is feared by many that it will eventually end in another division of the church.

Republican Meeting.—To-night (Tuesday) H. Bucher Swoope will address his fellow-citizens at the Court House. Voters of all parties are cordially invited to go and hear him. Mr. Swoope has, on several occasions, addressed Beaver audiences, and always satisfactorily to the latter. Come out therefore to-night and hear one of the best stump speakers in Pennsylvania discuss the issues involved in the present campaign.

WE clip the following from the Beaver County Press (New Brighton):

Mr. Noss has re-opened his extensively known Photograph Rooms at the old place, in Wilson's Block, Broadway. He has it now in full operation—open to patrons and visitors. He has very much enlarged his field of operations, having entirely remodeled his gallery, increasing the size and attractions of all his apartments. His reception-room has been handsomely furnished and elegant furniture, and displays a taste and refinement rarely surpassed in the best city establishments. The new feature of a dressing-room has also been added. He has now and large lights, arranged on the latest principles of scientific application, improved apparatus, new back-grounds, and new appliances of various kinds, the best approved in the art. Indeed almost everything is new about his establishment. With his acknowledged skill as an artist, his long experience in the business and his increased facilities, he is sure to give satisfaction to those who call upon him. Mr. Noss keeps on hand some very beautiful and attractive foreign and home views for the stereoscope, and still makes re-touched negatives a specialty. Call to see him and see some of his very fine work.

Opening of the Public School.—The Public School of this place will open on next Monday. Pupils should be in attendance on the first day if possible.

The Temperance Convention.—The Prohibitionists of this county held their convention in the Court House on last Monday evening. The meeting was not large but considerable enthusiasm was nevertheless manifested. Mr. A. Bestwick of New Brighton was chosen to preside and Mr. Edgar of Fallston was selected to fill the position of Secretary. The purpose of the meeting was stated by the chairman, which was the nomination of a county ticket to be supported by the Prohibitionists at the October election. A committee on resolutions and nominations was ordered to be appointed by the chairman, who selected the following gentlemen: T. J. Chandler, Charles Buckley, Thos. Everson, Benjamin Todd, and J. A. Anderson. During the absence of this committee an address of considerable length was delivered by E. H. Bausch of Lancaster, the committee on resolutions and nominations here returned and reported as follows:

Resolved, That we do hereby fully endorse the platform of Principles adopted by the Prohibition Party State Convention held at Harrisburg on the 9th of August, 1871, and pledge our hearty support of its candidates for auditor Gen. and Surveyor Gen—Barr Spangler of Lancaster Co., and E. A. Wheeler of Mercer county.

Resolved, That the President of this meeting is hereby authorized and directed to appoint three conferees to meet similar conferees from Butler and Washington counties, should any be appointed, who shall nominate pledged Prohibitionists as candidates for the House of Representatives.

Resolved, That the chairman of this meeting be authorized by the State Convention to appoint a County Committee. We therefore refer the nomination of the county ticket to said County Committee.

These resolutions were unanimously adopted, after which Dr. Wright of Harrisburg addressed the convention in a speech of about one-half hour's length. The meeting then adjourned.

T. O. ASHNUTZ, Rec. Sec'y.

We Learn that Miss C. S. Burnett, who has been teaching in our public schools the past two years, and who was re-elected to the position of pricipal of the High School for the present year, has resigned to accept a situation in the Beaver Seminary and Institute, tendered her by its President, Rev. R. T. Taylor. During her stay here, Miss Burnett distinguished herself as a lady of estimable qualities and an educator of rare ability, filling the responsible position she occupied to the satisfaction of all; and while we are sorry our schools lose so earnest and successful a teacher, we recognize that her superior education and wide experience as an instructor, demand for her a more advantageous position she will occupy in her new field of labor.—Sharon Herald.

Mr. EDITOR:—In your last is an article, part of which is no doubt intended for me. I quote the last three sentences which are as follows:

"When the Association had held a second meeting and the report of its proceedings had been made public and no one seemed to take notice of these, I supposed "private opinions of its members," it occurred to me that attention should be called to those monstrous "opinions."

"Does any one feel that his "private opinions" will not endure the gaze of public opinion? If so, he must be the wounded bird.

Instead having any "bile" to work off through the public press, I cannot be provoked into a newspaper controversy, and therefore close my communications on this subject with this article.

Yours, &c.,
R. T. TAYLOR."

Unfortunately for the force of the first paragraph, his inquiry and the proceedings of the said meeting were published in the same column.

To the second I reply. The private opinions referred to were remarks of members before any discussion occurred and at the meeting previous to the one appointed for the discussion. In that sense only did I speak of them as private. I have no private opinions on the subject. I do not believe that wine is matum in se, but I refrain from the use of all intoxicating drinks on the principle laid down by the apostle, "I will drink no wine while the world stands if it makes my brother to offend." That has been my rule for nearly forty years, and I have written and lectured in its defence. But I am not an ultraist.

I am glad the gentleman has no "bile" to work off. I am not of a bilious habit, but I can rejoice to see others getting clear of their bile, till they have no more to work off. The idea of being provoked into a controversy reminds me of what I saw a boy do on our street. He threw a stone at some boys across the street and when one of them ran over to him, to keep him from throwing again, he said he could not be drawn into any controversy. Yours &c.

ATTENTION is called to the advertisement of the Beaver Seminary and Musical Institute, Beaver, Pennsylvania, in another column. It has the reputation of being one of the best educational institutions in the country, and in its faculty appear the names of some of the most prominent professors and teachers. Its location cannot be surpassed, while the course of study adopted is most thorough and complete. For the education of young ladies it is especially recommended.—Journal, Lafayette, Ind.

Dr. McLean has returned home from a two-week's trip in the interest of Beaver Ladies' Seminary, and reports that the prospects for a full school are better than at any former opening. The session begins on next Tuesday the 12th instant. Pupils in Primary Department will be received next session.

DIED.

EWING.—On Saturday morning, September 2d, Alexander Ewing, of Ohio tp., aged 70 years.

Mr. Ewing was stricken with paralysis, and died suddenly. His funeral was largely attended on Sunday last, he having been for many years one of our most worthy and respected citizens.

IN MEMORIAM.

AUGHEY.—George Hamilton, Jr., born in Amsterdam, Jefferson county, O., Mr. David Aughey, aged sixty-six years, six months and nineteen days.

He leaves six children, sixteen grand children and a large circle of relatives and friends to mourn his loss. He died in the faith. Trusting in his Savior's merits alone for salvation, his soul passed upward and stood before the Throne. He was a consistent and exemplary member of the Presbyterian church; Steubenville and American as a merchant he was prompt, honest and upright in all his business transactions, and to his estate there attaches not one spot of dishonest gain. A faithful friend, a kind neighbor, a devoted husband, an affectionate parent, "sans peur et sans reproche, he has left deposited upon the silent shore of memory, images and deeds as brought forth that shall not die, and his name shall be preserved. Removing from Oneida Co., N. Y. to Steubenville at an early day, he may be regarded as one of the pioneers of this section of the State, when an inconsiderable village, with no railroad facilities no telegraphs, but little commerce, and all Eastern trade was but little more than a wilderness—its population scarcely 1,000, its educational, social and industrial interests in their nonage. Now the country teems with a dense population. Eastern Ohio is blessed with its railroads and villages and every material educational and moral interest is in the ascendant. None rejoiced more in the progress of Eastern Ohio, and of the whole country than did the subject of this notice.

But the pioneers are passing away. The fathers and mothers in Israel are dropping off one by one. His wife and four children preceded him to the Eternal world; six children survive him. His only surviving son, Rev. John F. Aughey, of Rochester, Pa., is in the ministry in the Presbyterian church.

"He sleeps in Jesus, blessed sleep,
From which none ever wake to weep."

THE AMERICAN WASHER!

PRICE, $5.50.

The American Washer Saves Money, Time, and Drudgery.

The Fatigue of Washing Day no Longer Dreaded, but Economy, Efficiency, and Clean Clothing, Sure.

In calling public attention to this little machine a few of the invaluable qualities, (not possessed by any other washing machine yet invented,) are here enumerated, viz:

It is the smallest, most compact, most portable, most simple in construction, most easily operated. A child ten years old, with a few hours practice, can thoroughly comprehend and effectually use it. There is no adjusting, no screws to annoy, no delay in adapting; it is always ready for use. It is perfectly self-adjusting, effectually saves doing more work and of a better quality, than the most elaborate and costly. One-half of the labor is rubbing, and by its use, and the clothes need but one-half longer than the old plan of the rub board. It will wash the largest blanket. Three shirts at a time, washing thoroughly in a wash-tub. A handkerchief of any fabric, from a Quilt to a Lace Curtain or Cambric Handkerchief, are equally within the capacity of this LITTLE GEM. It can be fastened to any tub and taken off at will.

No matter how deep rooted a prejudice may exist against Washing Machines, the moment this little machine is seen to perform its wonders, all doubts of its cleansing efficacy and utility are at once removed, and the doubter at once becomes the last friends of the machine.

We have testimonials without end, setting forth its numerous advantages over all others, and from hundreds who have thrown aside the unwieldy, useless machines, which have signally failed to accomplish the object promised in prominent and loud sounding advertisements.

It is so perfect for washing as a wringer is for wringing. The price another paramount inducement to purchasers, has been placed so low that it is within the reach of every housekeeper, and there is no article of domestic economy that will repay the small investment so soon.

All that is asked for this GREAT LABOR SAVER, is a fair trial. We guarantee each machine to do its work perfectly.

(Concluded from First Page.)

studying the disease, declaring to the Baron, that with a few more experiments, he should begin to understand the cause of the disease.

In Paris, where he could not obtain criminals, he experimented on animals, until Louis, pale and wretched, prayed that the mysterious disease, of which he was the unlucky possessor, might terminate his life. All palled on him; even his love for Coralie was a source of pain to him. There was a secret between them, and there was an inevitable ending awaiting their love, and love of its nature was eternal.

Louis felt like a man pursued by a specter—a criminal condemned to death. This secret was consuming his very life, at least, all that the doctor had spared him of it. To one of his intimate friends, in a moment of prostration and mental agony, he confided the treaty which bound him to the doctor.

The next day the club received him with an air of indulgence and pity, treating him like a spoiled child. His friend, and the whole club, to whom he had confided the revelation, declared him to be mad.

Saddened, weakened, and discouraged, Louis one day determined to confide in Coralie.

"Coralie," said he, "I have asked you to be my wife."

"Yes, and I have consented."

"But there is a secret between us. I have not told you all my life; or rather, the death that hangs over me."

"Death!" exclaimed Coralie, "death!"

"Yes—I am under sentence of death, Coralie."

"In danger? Louis, I have wondered, whether in my life, I might find some opportunity to show you how deep and sincere was my love for you. Now I can share your danger with you, perhaps."

"Neither. Listen to me, Coralie."

Then once again he told his story. Coralie listened with intense interest; but at the termination, much to his surprise, she went off into a hearty laugh.

"What do you mean, Coralie?" asked Louis, indignantly.

"I mean, my dearest love, that I am a better doctor than the doctor himself, for I can save you."

"At the club, I see they consider me mad."

You mad! Ah! ah! There is but one mistake; that is, that the—well, no matter."

"Are you not afraid of the fatal disease I bear in my veins?"

"Nonsense! The fatal disease is in the brain of the doctor."

"Look at these brown stains," said Louis, baring his arm.

"Where are they?"

"I can see them," said the baron.

"With the eyes of infatuation. Now, promise me that you will not interfere with anything that I do."

"I promise."

"I hear the doctor's step on the stairs; now remember."

Dr. Wolf entered, and gaily saluted the young people.

"Doctor," said Coralie, "do you think I love Louis?"

"Yes."

"I want not to survive him."

"Him? What do you mean?"

"He has honorably told me all."

"Well."

"I know he must die. To begin a life of happiness, knowing how it would end would be torture. I have resolved to die now."

"I now desire to be inoculated with the disease that is ultimately to kill Louis."

"Never!" exclaimed Louis.

"Nonsense, my dear Louis," said the doctor, "if she likes it, her name will be rendered immortal, and that, too, in the interests of science. Come, Louis, bare your arm."

"Coralie, I will not survive you."

"If I die, you shall not."

Dr. Wolf, ruthless where science was concerned, proceeded to business, and in a few moments the baron lay fainting on the sofa, the blood flowing from his arm.

Coralie then laid out hers. The doctor made an incision, and with an instrument he had constructed for the purpose, infused the blood he had taken from the baron.

"Now," said the doctor, binding up the arm, "how do you feel?"

"Just as I did before."

"Hump! You have a good constitution."

"Yes."

"But you cannot resist the virus—that means poison."

He sat and watched, while the baron slowly recovered from his syncope. Then, kneeling before Coralie, he watched her. Not a change was there in her color—not the least variation in her appearance.

For two hours thus he sat—until at last, Coralie, rising, took Louis by the hand.

"Now Louis, I have saved you—you were the victim of an hallucination."

"An hallucination."

"Not of yours, but of his—Dr. Wolf is mad."

"How dare you say so?"

"I do; and I repeat it. Listen to me. You have no mortal malady. Look at me; I have imbibed the poison, yet there is no change. Dr. Wolf has deceived you; not willingly, for he has deceived himself first."

Dr. Wolf sat in speechless agony. His illusions, his hopes, his subjects were all failing him.

"Now," said Coralie, "we will leave Paris together, as soon as we are married."

"But my debt to him?"

"Your agony has paid it."

"But I am poor."

"But I am rich—rich in the genius that God has given me—rich in the art that science and study have obtained for me. I can make you rich."

"But what can I give you?"

"Love," said Coralie, "love, which is an artist's life and imagination."

Mlle Coralie, Baronne de Rochetaneuse, has kept her word. She has achieved a fortune.

Dr. Wolf's villa is transformed into a mad house, where he is the only inmate; his one idea has developed into insanity; all that remains of his former life is the memory of Louis, and grief at the loss of his subject.

I never thought of a woman. They always were too much for science from the days when they ate of the tree of knowledge.

Lake Michigan Silver Mine.

It was the property of the Montreal Mining Company, which owned seventeen thousand acres near this point and at other points along the northern shore. This company has spent $700,000 in attempts to develope their copper mines. When the company was well nigh discouraged, having failed to see a single dollar in return for their outlay and many years of waiting a gentleman in their employ discovered the silver ore in this Silver Island, and asked the company $40,00 to work the mine. Supposing it would only fail as all their former efforts had failed, they would not grant the money. So the discoverer applied to Captain Ward and other American capitalists, who, believing in the project, formed a company, and, last summer, bought the seventeen thousand acres from the Canadian company for the sum of $235,000. They went immediately to work on Silver Island and before winter set in they had taken $100,000 worth of ore, which they had turned into silver bars and deposited in bank. Up to this time they have taken out this summer, with the labor of ten or twelve men, ore to the amount of $600,000. Smelting works are being put in operation at Wyandotte, near Detroit, and Captain Ward expects that within a few weeks they will be reducing in those works and taking out bars of pure silver at the rate of $20,000 to $25,000 per day. This is supposed to be the richest silver mine in the world.

The Solitary Lovers' Bench at Saratoga.

[Correspondent New York Commercial.]

One of the saddest discomforts to young lovers, newly-married people, and young gentlemen who desire to get certain young ladies "on the string," is the absence of benches in the park. There is only one bench where two people can sit and talk in the whole inclosure. This bench is in a conspicuous location on the hill, commanding all the approaches, to be sure, and so situated as to incur no very quick surprise on the part of the dog in the manager pirates who spend their time in watching hand-holding beaux, or susceptible bachelors, always on the point of proposing. Every lover in Saratoga knows where the double bench is situated. You will always see it occupied, morning, noon, and night, while hovering around within accessible distance, will be half a dozen couples, waiting for the next chance to sit there. Yesterday I met an old Saratoga statistician—a rusty old bachelor—who, unseen, has watched this bench for fourteen years. He has the name of every young lady whose hand has ever been held by couples sitting on this bench, the number of kisses stolen or given away, and the names of the stealer and the stealee. He showed me them in his record book. Great Heavens! What secrets were there. What a flutter it would cause in Congress Hall, I thought to publish them.

"How many young ladies have allowed their hands to be held willingly?" I asked of the statistician.

"Eleven hundred and fifty-two," he answered.

"How many unwillingly?"

"Three; but they had false hands."

"How many unmarried ladies have been kissed there?"

"Three hundred and ninety one."

"How many married ladies have been kissed there willingly?"

"Two hundred and seventy-six?"

"Unwillingly?"

"Two—by their husbands."

"How is the proper way to occupy this bench with a sweetheart?" I asked.

"Well, saunter along with a large daily newspaper, spread it over your laps, holding it with one hand, while your sweet heart holds it with the other. This leaves to each a hand free under the paper. These hands will naturally seek each other, and then you can sit and defy detection from the most observing. Such cases I never watch. They defy detection." Now, for the good of humanity, for the benefit of scolding husbands, loving brides, spoony lovers, and the great army of flirters at Saratoga, I plead for more benches in the parks, more seats for two persons, more seats close together. Amen.

What I Say I Can do.

Thousands of cases of lung disease could be cured in their incipiency. Not only in the winter but even into the summer months we find these ailments. Many people are heard coughing and they apparently pay little heed to it. We speak to warn them and do them good. Every one of them could have been cured when the disease began, and even after it is seated they are not hopeless. We have seen many a seemingly hopeless case cured by Dr. Keyser's Lung Cure, a medicine which is almost a specific in pulmonary diseases—for a common cough it is a specific. It reaches right to the spot; it makes new blood and enriches the old; it conveys its healing virtues along the arteries and veins laden with new and precious nutriment, and heals over the ulcerous and diseased portion. The use of a bottle of Dr. Keyser's Lung Cure is often the prolongation of a life. Go to the Doctor's office, for chronic diseases, No. 167 Liberty street, and he will examine your lungs and tell you what to do. Office hours from nine a. m. until one p. m., and from three to six, and from seven to nine at night on Saturdays. If your druggist does not keep it, send five dollars to Dr. Keyser, and he will send four bottles securely boxed, by express, with full directions how to use it.

—Shortly before the departure of the lamented Herbert from India, he preached a sermon which contained this beautiful sentiment:

"Life bears us on like the stream of a mighty river. Our boat glides down the narrow channel, through the playful murmurings of its grassy borders. The trees shed their blossoms over our heads; the flowers seem to offer themselves to the young hands; we are happy in hope, and we grasp eagerly at the beauty around us—but the stream hurries on still our hands are empty. Our course in youth and manhood is alone a wider and deeper flood, amid other objects striking and magnificent. We are animated at the moving pictures of enjoyments, and industry around us; we are excited at some short lived disappointment. The stream bears us on, and our joys and our griefs are alike left behind us. We may be ship-wrecked, but we cannot be delayed; whether rough or smooth the river hastens to its home, till the roar of the ocean is in our ears, and the tossing of the waves is beneath our feet, and the land lessens from our eyes, and the floods are lifted up around us, and we take our leave of earth and its inhabitants, until of our future voyage there is no witness save the Infinite and Eternal.

A MOST REMARKABLE DOCUMENT has perished in France. The Archiepiscopal palace at Bourges was destroyed by fire, and at the same time, all of its various manuscripts and priceless literary curiosities. Among these, in spite of the general brilliancy of the treasurers, one shone out brighter than all. This was the death warrant of Jesus Christ. For many centuries this has been regarded as an authentic relic, and whether it were so or not, it had concentrated upon it so many awestricken looks, so much of the reverence of ages, that even the most skeptical can not help regretting that it should have been lost. For several centuries it has been the property of the family of Latour D'Auvergne, by whom it had been placed, for safe keeping, in the Archiepiscopal palace. The warrent is said to have read as follows:

"Jesus of Nazareth of the House of Judah, found guilty of disturbance and rebellion against the divine power of Tiberius Augustus, Emperor of Rome, condemned for this lese majeste, by the Judge Pontius Pilate, and with approval of our Governor Herod, imperial representative in Judea, is die on the cross, shall suffer death to-morrow morning, the 23d day of the Ides of March on the common place of execution, accompanied by one company of the Praetorian guard. The so-called King of the Jews shall be led out of the Struinium gate. All publications and subjects of the Emperor herewith commanded to lend a helping hand in this execution."

"Jerusalem, on the 22d day of the Ides of March, in the year of Rome 783."

THE Treasury Department has decided not to take up the question of refunding taxes on salaries of State officers, at least for some time to come. The matter is of so much importance, and the dividing line between Federal and State rights so indistinctly defined, that Secretary Boutwell does not feel justified in opening the door to the innumerable number of claimants which would apply for remission of taxes paid.

A young British officer in India, who was shockingly mutilated and disfigured in battle, after mature reflection requested a comrade to write to his betrothed in England, and release her from her bridal engagement. Her noble reply was worthy of a true woman: "Tell him if there is enough of his body left to contain his soul, I shall hold him to his engagement."

—A fellow tried to hang himself in London not long ago, and the magistrate before whom he was taken very properly ordered him to pay the man who cut him down ten shillings for the job.

THE SURE ROAD TO SUCCESS;

A WORD TO AGENTS.

There is no scarcity of books to sell. But the great success of an agent lies in selecting that work which meets the wants of the times, and deals most powerfully with the living issues of the day. The recent efforts of the enemies of Protestantism to banish the Bible from the Public Schools, and the late attempts in the Legislature of New York and Illinois to legalize this outrage upon our civil and religious liberties, have aroused in the minds of all true Protestents a desire to know and have circulated a more thorough knowledge of the intents and purposes of this great organization, which boast they will possess this country before the close of the Nineteenth Century. THE OPEN BIBLE deals with these questions, and the readiness with which the first two editions have been sold is sufficient proof of the interest felt in the book.

ARTIFICIAL TEETH PERFECTED!—T. J. & H. J. CHANDLER have purchased the exclusive right of Beaver county to use Dr. Stuck's Patent by which they can put up Vulcanite as thin as Gold Plate, with a beautiful enameled polish; and as light and elastic as to perfectly adapt itself to the mouth, obviating all that clumsy and bulky condition, so much complained of heretofore; and lessening their liability to break 100 per cent. Indeed, do not believe it would be willing to wear the old style plate any longer than they could conveniently get them exchanged. All branches of Dentistry performed in the best and most workmanlike manner. In filling teeth with gold, etc., we challenge competition from any quarter, and can refer to living subjects whose fillers have stood between thirty and forty years. Among the number Hon. John Allison will exhibit fillings we inserted some 25 years ago; the teeth as perfect as the day they were filled. Laughing Gas prepared on a new plan, freeing it from all unpleasant and dangerous effects, making the extraction of teeth a source of pleasure rather than of horror and pain. Prices as low as any good dentist in the State. Office at Beaver Station, Rochester Pa.
